President Coolidge has signed the tax reduction bill which will reduce certain Federal taxes more than $22,000,000. The last of the automobile tax has been eliminated thus saving the buyers of motor cars the three per cent tax.

An eclipse of the moon is set for Sunday, June 3rd and will be visible to residents in western states. The eclipse will be total from Denver west but east to Chicago only partial.

Mr. Ream Shroades and family of Springfield spent Wednesday at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Shroades.

The County Board of Education transferred territory from Sugar Creek township to Spring Valley township on the tax duplicate for $128,000 Saturday. Property owners met with the county board and urged the change in as much as about twenty pupils from Sugar Creek township were now attending Spring Valley school. State Superintendent J. L. Clifton was present and explained the proposition to the satisfaction of all concerned. Sugar Creek township will be reimbursed through the state equalization fund to the amount of the deficit. A large number of interested people attended the meeting in the office of County Superintendent H. C. Auldman.

While employees of The Hag Straw Board and Paper Company were loading straw on the Collin Barber farm last Thursday, the tractor back-fired and set fire to the loose straw. In a few minutes the entire straw pile was a fire. The trailer was burned. The straw belonged to the paper company.

PARENTS REALIZED A RESPONSIBILITY

Parents of pupils in Xenia township school district that took the Eighth grade examination evidently had more of the interest of the pupils at heart than those who endeavored to leave the impression that it was not necessary to take the examination. It would have been unjust to have penalized the pupils for some difference, real or imaginary, that the might have existed between school authorities, and the parents being custodians of their own children did the wise thing in having the pupils take the examination. Parents have certain rights and so have boards of education but these parents should make it a point to learn whether those directing affairs in that district have had their duties laid down from any higher source. The parents should now demand all the facts for future guidance.

COOLIDGE VETO IS VOTED DOWN

The manner in which Congress the past week voted down several of the vetoes of President Coolidge, reminds us of the action of the Ohio State Legislature four years ago when attempting to put Governor Donahay in the hole by passing measures over his veto, the state was thrown into bankruptcy, as more money was ordered spent than the state had income. As the President has said it was impossible to reduce taxes and at the same time appropriate millions for improvement, without increasing the government revenue. The action of the Ohio legislature made Donahay stronger with the people just as the action of Congress will draw public sentiment for the President.

The veto of the farm relief bill was as expected and congress will not likely tackle that measure. In fact as far as we can estimate sentiment, ninety per cent of the farmers in this section approve the President's action. The law may be constitutional. The President's legal advisors say it is not. At any rate the outstanding farmers do not seem to endorse the Lowden and Brand idea which comes from Western radical farm politicians. A well known farmer said a few days ago that the more he read and studied the farm relief bill the more he was convinced that it would not afford relief to the average Ohio farmer. It was as much a piece of quack legislation as the infamous justice of peace bill that was voted down in Ohio last fall by 477,000.

THE PURPOSE OF LIFE

"What is the purpose of life?" Volumes have been written on this subject but we have yet to read one that answers the question. Nobody seems to know just what the purpose of life is. We have sat up until the small hours of the morning grappling with this very same conundrum time and time again. That "we" applies to the entire thinking portion of the human race. And we have all given it up.

Iaving no control over our entrance into this life, we, the living ones of today, cannot very well establish the purpose for which we were born. The man who falls out of an aeroplane and lands in the midst of a democratic convention is not responsible for the calling of the convention, and it is hardly fair to insist upon his telling what the convention was called for.

If you believe in any Power that created man, you must look to that Power for the explanation of a purpose. That is what all religions do. That is one of the beauties of all religions. They take a great burden of thought from the mind and substitute a placid and soothing faith in its place.

If you believe in a religion, you ought to know what the purpose of life is. Each religion explains it clearly, though not in the same way. If you do not believe in a religion and cannot accept a faith without logical proof, then you will save yourself many a headache by not bothering about the purpose for which, without your will, you were thrown into this vale of tears. Because you will never find out.

What you can do, however, is to develop a purpose of your own. You can look around, you can see all that is good and bad in life. You can mull over the experiences of countless generations that came and went before you saw the light of day. You can ransack the nooks and crannies of your mind and your heart and your conscience. And you can find out for yourself what is the finest and greatest and most wonderful and most glorious of all the possibilities of life that is within your reach. Make that your purpose and, whatever betide, you will find yourself treading the path of wisdom and happiness.

WHAT IS PSYCHOANALYSIS?

Fads run their course through the mob like the measles or the Spanish influenza. One of the latest is psychoanalysis.

Nobody thinks of writing on any subject these days, including politics, finance, fashions, food, eugenics or baseball without treating us to the "psychological" elements of the matter.

Young ladies in college and just out will hand you all sorts of psychological discoveries they have made, display their expertness in the psychic studies they have pursued, overwhelm you with psychoanalytical arguments and bewilder you with their psychic trappings.

Young gentlemen hardly dry behind the ears will tell you of their theories of psycho-analysis.

All of this would not be any more dangerous than the average school-boy's views on Einstein's theory, were it not for the fact that there are peculiar elements of peril in the business of digging into one's soul.

In a word, that element is the danger of morbidity. A man's soul functions in forthputting and when it turns about and begins to devour itself, it is liable to all manner of strange diseases.

There is one thing a mind needs more than knowledge, and that is health. And the healthy mind, as a rule, is one that is exerted upon work outside of itself.

Just as the healthy body is one that is occupied in wholesome labor and the unhealthy body is one that is occupied in tinkering with its ailments, so the healthy mind is one that is intent upon business or some other externality that shall call it away from itself. Selfishness is more than a sin; it is a disease.

And the danger in this present fad is that people shall get to contemplating themselves, handling themselves, gazing at themselves, and otherwise occupying themselves, until they lose that normal vigor which characterizes the healthy and become probably sickly and certainly a nuisance.

The chief peril to the amateur psycho-analyst, afflicted with collegitis, lies in the fact that much is made of repressed sexual tendencies. And the sex instinct, being the strongest and most potent for good or evil in human beings, it is much better dealt with under the purifying influences of idealism and in the wholesome activities of normal social life than by the continuous self-study, which easily leads to morbidity.

That's why we think healthy high school boys and girls are better off playing basketball than studying psycho-analysis. If you get what we mean.

JESUS FACING BETRAYAL AND DEATH

LESSON TEXT—Mark 14:1-43.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Not what I will, but what Thou wilt."
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' Last Supper With His Friends.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus' Last Supper With His Disciples.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Loyalty in Times of Temptation.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—"The Fellowship of His Sufferings."

1. Judas Bargain With the Chief Priests (vv. 10, 11).

This black crime was committed immediately following the beautiful act of devotion by Mary (John 12:1). The motive actuating Judas was avarice.

2. The Last Passover (vv. 12-25).

1. The preparation (vv. 12-16).
In reply to the disciples' inquiry as to where they should prepare the Passover for Him, Jesus told them to go into the city where they would meet a man bearing a pitcher of water, whom they should follow. In the house to which they were thus led would be found a guest chamber, a large upper room where they could make ready the Passover.

2. The betrayal announced (vv. 17, 21).

The betrayal was to be by one of the disciples who was eating with Jesus. This betrayal had been predicted.

3. The sacrament of the bread and cup.
These were symbols of His broken body and shed blood by which He had made atonement for man's sin.

4. The Communion of the Disciples Foretold (vv. 26-31).

In spite of their cowardly turning from the Savior, He assured them that after His resurrection He would go before them into Galilee. Peter protested against such an act of disloyalty by the disciples and assured the Lord that though all the rest would forsake Him, yet he would not. The Lord showed him how little he knew, even about his best resolve, telling him that on that very night he would deny Him thrice.

IV. The Agony in Gethsemane (vv. 32-42).

1. Jesus Christ's suffering (vv. 32-34).

(1) The place (v. 32).
The Garden of Gethsemane, an enclosure containing olive and fig trees, beyond Kidron, about three-fourths of a mile from Jerusalem. Gethsemane means olive trees. Edersheim says, "It is an emblem of trial, distress and agony."

(2) His companions (v. 33).
He took with Him the eleven disciples that they might share, so far as possible, this sorrow with Him.

(3) His great sorrow (v. 34).
This is the same as the "cup" in verse 36. It was not primarily the prospect of physical suffering that was crushing him; it was His suffering as the sinbearer—the sensations of His pure soul coming into contact with the awful sin and guilt of the world.

2. Jesus Christ praying (vv. 35-42).
His only recourse in the hour of supreme need was prayer.

(1) The first prayer (vv. 35-38).

a. His posture (v. 35).
He fell on His face to the ground.

b. His petition (v. 36).
"Take away this cup from me." By the cup is meant His death on the cross. It was most grievous to Him to face this shame, but He pressed on, knowing that for this cause He had come into the world (John 12:27, 28; cf. Heb. 2:14). He prayed that the hour might pass from Him. The burden was so great that it seemed His life would be crushed out. His prayer was heard (Heb. 5:7).

c. His resignation (v. 38).
He knew that His death on the cross was the will of God, the Father, for He was the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world.

d. The disciples rebuked (v. 37).
He singled out Peter, since he had been the most conspicuous in proclaiming his loyalty (John 13:38).

e. Exhortation to the disciples (v. 38).
Watch and pray lest ye enter into temptation.

(2) The second prayer (vv. 39, 40).
He withdrew the second time from His disciples and uttered the same words in prayer. This was not vain repetition, but repeated request.

(3) The third prayer (vv. 41, 42).
He uttered the same words in his third prayer (Matt. 26:42). He told the disciples to sleep on and take their rest as the hour had now come for His betrayal.

There are times when a strange warmth takes possession of our hearts as we pore over the pages of the Bible. What does it mean? Simply this: Jesus is talking with you. And oftentimes He does it "by the way"—H. A. Torrey.

Mother's Cook Book

Isn't it strange that princes and kings And clowns that cower in sawdust rings And common folks like you and me Are builders of eternity?

To each is given a bag of tools A shapless mass and a book of rules And each must make, ere life is done, A stumbling-block or a stepping stone. —Anon.

THIS AND THAT

HERE are a few choice good things which will be enjoyed occasionally on the menu:

Jellied Ham.
Take one pound of thinly sliced boiled ham, a four-pound shank of veal, one-fourth cupful each of sliced celery and minced onion, one bay leaf, one-eighth teaspoonful of thyme, eight peppercorns and two teaspoonfuls of salt. Wash the veal shank and place in a kettle with the vegetables and seasonings and pour over two quarts of boiling water. Simmer slowly until the meat falls from the bones. Remove the meat, strain the stock and add salt and cayenne. Put a little of the stock into a cold wet pan and boil without stirring for ten minutes then strain again. On a layer of the stock that is cooled add sliced ham and the minced onion and veal. Cover with stock and let stand five hours before removing from the pan.

Carrots Stuffed With Onions.
This oriental dish will be enjoyed by even those who refuse the carrot unless served in an ordinary way. Choose carrots which are short and stout. Cook them after scraping well. When tender, drain and cool. With an apple corer remove the centers from the carrots. Mince very fine, enough onions to make half a cupful, add two tablespoonfuls of minced parsley, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt and paprika and cook in a tablespoonful of butter for five minutes. Then stuff the carrots with the mixture. Stand the carrot on its base and pack down with a skewer. This quantity will fill six to eight carrots. When all the carrots are filled, roll in crumbs and then in egg. Place around any kind of a roast and baste during the roasting. The carrots may be rolled in slices of bacon and browned in the oven for half an hour.

Blackstone Dressing.
Mix four tablespoonfuls each of mayonnaise and whipped cream, two tablespoonfuls each of tomato catsup and chili sauce and vinegar. Boil for five minutes.

Sauce Finest.
Brown three tablespoonfuls of butter then add one-half teaspoonful of mustard, a few grains of cayenne, one teaspoonful of lemon juice, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of Worcestershire sauce and three-fourths of a cupful of stewed and strained tomatoes. This sauce is especially nice with a meat loaf.

Instructors Levi Lukins, Theo.
Johnson and John Davis of the Smith-
Hughes schools in Clinton county, accompanied about thirty students, were in a preliminary for stock judging.

The boys were given instruction using animals from these two herds of hogs.
The boys will enter a trial judging contest at the O. S. U. this week.

Prof. Welch and a class of thirty boys from Portage county will visit the Farndale farm today to inspect hogs and practice judging.

Rain Disrupts Memorial Service

Threatening skies turned into a rain
Wednesday shortly after the Memorial Day Service had opened at North Cemetery. The parade had formed in town and marched to music by the local band to the cemetery. Com. W.
W. Galloway of the Wallace C. Anderson Post was in charge, aided by Mr.
T. V. Illiff, one of the three surviving members of the local Civil War Veterans.

The program was well under way and Rev. H. B. McElree, pastor of the Second U. P. church, Xenia, had spoke only a few minutes when a downpour of rain dispersed the crowd and the service had to be abruptly terminated.
Later flowers were distributed by the Legion at all three cemeteries.

Songs of Plain Folks

Old Comrades

"Old Comrade!" So they greet beneath
Their flag—the boys of sixty-three—
Long has the sword been in its sheath
Since the great fight of Grant and Lee.
Still, when Reunion's drummers beat,
They come (Alas! how few they are!)
Marching again with eager feet—
The comrades of the G. A. R.

All honor to you, Comrades old;
Sons of your sons look on and feel
Pride in your loyal spirits bold;
We catch your patriotic zeal.
That flag above your silver hair
Shall always be our guiding star
Because your loved hands held it there,
Brave comrades of the G. A. R.

Decrease Of 9,000 In Ohio Milk Cows

But Crop of Heifers Coming On Probably Will Bring State Back Into Line in 1928

Ohio showed a decrease of 9,000 in the number of cows kept for milk on January 1, 1928, as against January 1, 1927, while each state bordering Ohio, showed an increase. Only four of the north central states, of which Ohio is one, showed an increase in the number of milk cows during 1927, while more than half of the states in the entire country had increased their number, and the total increase for the United States as a whole, was 180,000 head.

The price of cows has been high, according to figures issued by the rural economics department of the Ohio State University, and most of the states are increasing the number of milk cows in response to that fact. Ohio probably will soon be doing the same thing, since there was in 1927 an increase of about 5,000 head in the number of heifers from one to two years old. This indicates, according to the University men, that an increase in the number of milk cows will come next year, when these heifers will be rated as milk cows.

Only 11 states showed fewer milk heifers on hand on January 1 of this year than a year previously. Six of these 11 states were in the corn belt. For the entire United States the increase was 127,000 head or about 3 per cent.

Cuts Of Meat Will Be Explained

Ohio State university instructors in the agricultural department will be present at the second annual fat cattle show and sale at the Union stock yards, Dayton, June 7 and 8 to take charge of a meat demonstration. They will lecture on the various cuts of meat. A similar demonstration was conducted at the university last year.

A large attendance of grocers and meat dealers is expected for the demonstrations. Dayton packers are co-operating in the exhibit.

Hugh D. Conger, manager of the Union stock yards, in announcing the exhibit, took occasion Friday to explain some of the factors which govern the quality of meat that is placed on the family table for consumption.

He said: "A statement sometimes made at a dinner table by a disappointed member of the family, expressed the opinion of many people as to the cause of toughness in beef. This statement is, 'This piece of beef is so tough I cannot chew it. It must have come from an old cow.'"

"Age is a factor in determining tenderness in beef. Fat is a much more important factor than age in making beef tender and palatable. It takes fat to make beef good."

"There is a limit to the amount of fat which a cut of beef should carry. No one likes to see waste. Beef from extremely fat animals is sometimes wasteful and the thrifty housewife may think in terms that she should buy the piece of meat that shows no fat in order to avoid waste."

"Meat from lean animals contains a higher portion of moisture to weight and therefore shrinks more in process of preparing. Beef does not contain fat noticeable in amounts may be prepared so as to be sufficiently tender to be eaten, but the good beef flavor cannot be obtained from lean carcasses."

"Beef of a cherry red color with fat of white color is preferable. If one buys beef of a dark red color with a little or no fat marbled through it, someone probably will be disappointed at the dinner table."

"The meat exhibit planned in connection with the livestock show will show differences in quality. Many people have not had the opportunity to see and to compare different grades of beef. Cedarville housewives will be pleased to see this exhibit."

5 years of service is only a starting point for Buick

—Skilled engineering and rugged construction make it the most durable of motor cars!

Keep in mind, when buying your new car, that more than three-quarters of all Buicks produced in the last twenty-five years are still serving their owners.

Buick endures—Buick stays young—Buick stands up and gives its best over a longer period than any other car—because it is endowed with an extra-rugged double-drum frame—Buick's world-famous Sealed Chassis and Triple-Sealed Engine—and the most nearly perfect oiling system ever developed.

You'll prefer Buick because it leads in beauty and luxury; and you'll prefer it, too, because it is the most durable of cars—and therefore the most paying investment.
